For the Quincy Patriot. TO WORLD.

To what vicissitudes and judgments are we subjected. This great world which is, in a sense of speaking, controlled by the whole human family of nations, kindreds, and people, at one time may flourish and prosper under the hand of prosperity, and, at another, languish and sicken under adversity. And can we not trace these evils and calamities to their origin and cause, politically, religiously, and socially? When a people suffer from unjust government, it is not only their right, but their duty, to change it; and, of neceessity, it must be its own judge when to do it, and at how much cost of blood and treasure. Can we not be warned, and improve upon the experience of the nations that have existed before us and taste, endeavor to wear what he thinks becomes the world is to be blessed shortly, or at some have gone to dust with all their tumult? If future period, with a moral revolution and renovation, the effect must be a great one, surely. Are not God's judgments on a nation, great for good or for evil? Take the Jews, for instance, -God's-chosen people. All history cannot furnish us with a parallel to the columities and miseries of the Jews. Rapine and murder, famine and pestilence, within; fire and sword, and all the terrors of war without. Our Saviour wept at the foresight of these calamities ; and it is almost impossible for persons of any homanity to read the account without being affected. The predictions concerning them were remarkable, and the ev is that came upon them were the greatest the world ever saw .--See Deut. 28, 27 : Matt. 24. How numerous and great then are his mercies towards this people, and how thankful had we ought to be that we are no worse off. Dr. Rush supposed that merely as friends to our country we ought, in the formation of habits as well as in every individual action, " to have a wise and sacred regard to the welfare of the hundredth generation that may succeed us," and he believed that tendency toinjure the species, however remote-

POETRY.

A FAMILY. I saw Content the other day, Sit by her spinning wheel, And Plenty in a wooden tray, Of wheat and Indian meal.

Health, also, at the table sat, Dining upon a ham; But Appetite demanded yet, A cabbage and a clam.

Wealth sat enthroned upon a green And fregrant load of hay; And Happiness compelled a dog Behind his cart to play.

Delight was chasing butterflies, With Laughter and with Joy; Affection gazed with ardent eyes Upon the sweet employ.

Beauty was watering her flowers Beside the cottage door; And Pleasure spoke about a tour To Mr. Staple's store.

Justice bid good morrow, and Invited me to tea; But Jolly bid me stay away, Unless I came with Glee.

Patience sat in an easy chair, Unravelling a skeing; While Mirth with roguish eye and air, Would tangle it again.

Benevolence had built a tower Of pudding, bread and meat, And bid Compassion take it e'er To Want, across the street.

But I was gratified to see Easy, and free, and fair, With Innocence upon his knee, Old Satisfaction there.

He took me by the hand, and led Me down a vista green, Where Fun and Frolick, antics played, Two ancient oaks between.

But best of all it was to find, That Love, the day before, The fopling Dress had kicked behind And tossed him out of door.

And now, kind reador, if you choose This family to know, A FARMER'S here I'll introduce-A "hundred years ago."

I HAVE NO INFLUENCE. What if the little rain should say, So small a drop as I Can ne'er refresh those thirsty fields-

What if a shining beam of noon Should in its fountain stay, Because its feeble light alone Cannot create a day?

I'll tarry in the sky?

Doth not each rain-drop help to form The cool refreshing shower, And every ray of light to warm And beautify the flower?

THE EXILE TO HIS SISTER. As streams at morn, from seas that glide Rejoicing on their sparkling way, Will turn again at even tide, To mingle with their kindred spray : E'en so the currents of the soul, Dear sister, whereso'er we rove, Will backward to our country roll, The boundless ocean of our love,

Yon northern star, now burning bright, The guide by which the wave dost steer, Beams not with more devoted light, Than does thy love, my sister dear, From stars above the streams below Receive the glory they impart; So, sister, do thy virtues glow

For the purchase of new and choice styles of FALL AND WINTER GOODS!

We shall offer all our present Stock, Rich Goods and Staple Goods, For the balance of the season,

At prices which will insure their quick sale. Purchasers of Dry Goods should bear in mind the great advantages we are able to offer them, as importers of our own Goods, we not being obliged to pay a profit to the importer and jobber, to procure them. It is always a great advantage to the consumer to buy from "first hands." In buying of the manufacturer abroad, we have but one profit to charge our customers, and we can afford to sell at a smaller profit even than the importer who sells by the package, as we are not subject to the risks of the "seller on time," and our system of low prices and honest goods, has already procured us an immense amount of business, which is daily increasing. Our stock of Shawls, Mantles and Scarfs, of every kind, is very large, and every one will be marked at a price which will make it sell. The variety of prices is too great to enumerate, embracing every variety of cheap Shawls, as well as the finest and

W. Burnett, Esq. of Newark, N. J., had suffered under the effects of a severe cold for more than a year, and in the month of August, when his Cough had reduced him so much that he feared he would die, he commenced using the Olosaonian. He raised blood at this time, complained of pain in his side and chest, and was very much debilitated by night sweats. His appetite was gone, and altogether he appeared to be rapidly sinking. He was so much relieved by the use of this remedy that by the month of November he left for Pittsburg, Pa. with every prospect of being permanently cured.

Hundreds of cases could be given to prove the efficacy of the great remedy. And it possesses a property superior to all others, viz: it does not constipate the bowels. Pursuant to notice, the undersigned held a meeting in Quincy, on the 27th of June, to take into consideration certain reports which had been circulated unfavorable to the character of Mr. Benjamin Long, late of Quincy, deceased.

The meeting was organized by the choice of Mr. Charles R. Mitchell, Chairman, and Mr. Samuel F. Parker, Secretary. A committee of seven members of the meeting were then chosen to take the subject into consideration, and to propose such statement of facts for the public as would have a tendency to counteract the evil effects of those false statements; and to make a report at an adjourned

FLOWERS.

Beautiful flowers! wherever ye bloom, fume,

Whether in spring ye come forth from the ground, Or when Autumn scatters her dead leaves around; Whether in cottage or palace ve dwell, Beautiful Flowers! I love ve well.

Behold a young girl in her mirthful play, Laughing the hours of childhood away. The light winds are waving her sunny hair, And her voice sounds sweet in the silent air, While her fair hands are twining, from summer bowers, Wild blooming wreaths of the beautiful Flowers.

The scene has now changed, for years have flown; That gay laughing girl to a woman is grown; And the lover is there, who fain would tell The secret their eyes have reveal'd too well! But flowers he plants in her snowy breast, And their eloquent leaves have his love confess'd.

'Tis a bridal morn, and loudly swells A merry peal from the old church bells; The white-rob'd bride is smiling now 'Neath a budding leaf from the orange bough; And bright eye'd maidens before her strew Beautiful flowers, of every hue.

There's a voice of sorrow-for time hath fled-A wife and mother lies cold and dead: They've laid her to sleep in her endless rest, With a young babe clasp'd to her marble breast; And flowers there are, with their perfum'd breath, Decking the bud and the blossom in death.

In the green church-yard is a lonely spot, Where the joyous sunshine enters not; Deep in the gloom of the cypress' shade, There is her home in the cold earth made, And over her still the sweet flowrets bloom, They were near her in life and forsake not her tomb.

Beautiful Flowers! ye seem to be Link'd in the fond ties of memory! Companions ye were to our childhood's day, Companions ve are to our lifeless clay; And barren and drear were this wide world of ours, Lacking the smile of the Beautiful Flowers!

THE FALSE LOVER. I dread the time, ye forests hoar, When ye shall flourish green once more. Ye happy birds that wake the spring, Sad shall I be when next ye sing! For then my shame, no longer hidden, The cold unfeeling world shall see, And scorned of all, disgraced, and chiddeu, A very by-word I shall be,

And weep and sigh the live-long day, Wo's me !-Wo's me ! But with the Spring that decks the plain,

Should my false love return again, Then should his presence cure my smart, And birds make music in my heart-Should he return to soothe my sadness, And love my hapless babe and me, My soul should re-awake to gladness, And all the earth be fair to see, And I no more would weep and sigh, Wo's me!-Wo's me!

TO THE WORKING MEN. You are toiling for your dinners, You have little else beside, And the profits on your labor Go to clothe the sons of pride. Your huge paws are in motion, From the early dawn till late, And you suffer, dig and suffer,

It is ignorance that binds you To your unrequited toil,-You are slaves upon the ocean, You are serfs upon the soil , While in squads or single handed It is useless to contend, You should all become united, If your prospects you would mend.

Still you better not your state.

"Tis of strans you make the cable, When united they are one, And hold the good ship in the gale, That else on shore would run. A single vote 's a trifle, Yet the ballot box can show, "Tis their number that determines Who to rule the state shall go.

Then take the hint you working-men, And far and near unite, No longer dig and toil in vain, But learn and take your right. Be like a band of brothers, Let your sympathy be known, And safely you may guard your rights And beat oppression down.

Look out for traitors in your camp And if a knave you find, Be he to lasting infamy And endless scorn consign'd. Mistrust the wily sycophant Who would your ranks divide, Establish full equality And struggle side by side.

If but a stran is wanting Know the cable is less strong, But if a man is injured Let it be a public wrong. From the beak of Freedom's Eagle Take the motto for your owu, And bind it to your bosoms-We are many-we are one. F. M. ADLINGTON, Weymouth.

THE HYPOCRITE. I saw him kneel-I heard him pray-

These words ascended fervently; "Lord may I do thy will this day, Devoting all I have to thee; Give to the poor-relieve the oppressed, And turn from every course of sin; Thy spirit constantly my guest, To keep me pure-all pare within."

That day I mingled with the crowd, Who buy and sell and trade for gain; The rich and poor-the humble, proud-The Christian and the vicious train, And as I passed I heard a cry--4 Give, give to me-I'm sick and poor;"

None gave-all passed the creature by, But still she pleaded more and more.

I looked with pity, and I turned To wipe the tears that came so fast, To know that all indignant spurned, Nor one kind look of mercy cast. Then I was poor -- I did not own A penny's worth on earth-or I Would to the poor have mercy shown, And shamed the rich who passed her by.

A moment and I heard her plead With one in height of fashion dressed; O, give me in this hour of need --For I am feeble and distressed." " Wretch to the alms house you belong," Said he with sternness on his brow; "Tis built for all the vagrant throng-

I felt indignant that a man Should show so little sympathy -And from the gaping mass I ran, To find out who the wretch might be. O God! when I beheld his face,

My deep emotions none can tell; I spoke ; if there is such a place, You can't escape the fires of hell.

Off, off! and not insult me now."

The same was he who in the morn Upon his knees devoutly prayed; And yet the poor he dared to scorn, When he had power to bless and aid. " Give to the poor" - what mockery !-O, if such prayers ascend above, They will be shaken from the sky-For God is just with all his love.

And on the distant sea-I hear it in the silent night, And at the break of morn : And aye it crieth-dark or light, Man was not made to mourn !

In ev'ry stream that seaward flows, Thar voice salutes mine ear; In ev'ry wind that round me blows, Its thrilling notes I hear; In every sound of Nature's heart, The cheerful or forlorn, This ever bears the better part-Man was not made to mourn!

The sun that glads the summer noon, The light that blesseth all, The myriad stars, the quiet moon, The showers from heaven that fall, The flowers which in our meadows grow, Our mountain paths adorn-All, all, in their own fashion show Man was not made to mourn!

All nature cries aloud-but man Regards not nature's voice; Perverteth her benignant plan, Her workmanship destroys-From her fair book the brightest page With impious hand has torn, Yet still she cries, from age to age, Man was not made to mourn!

O, gentlest mother! may thy child Ere long thy lesson read; Embrace thy precepts, loving, mild, Thy fraternizing creed: Then shall the blessed end be known For which he has been born; And all shall feel, from zone to zone, Man was not made to mourn !

THE HAY MAKERS What a lovely scene of country life, At noon in the shining open fields, When the blooming ground is rich and rife With the gift that glorious nature yields.

When the balmy hay and waving grain, Repaying the thrifty farmer's care, Has peopled the broad and spreading plain, And filled with fragrance the passing air.

Then in the noon of a summer's day, To wander over the budding ground, Where the mowers toss the yellow hay, And scatter the perfumed heaps around.

Where the country maid, with rustic grace, Her glowing cheek, and her timid eyes That's gemming her upturn'd artless face. And blue as the overhanging skies.

The village swain, with an earnest gaze, Is whispering in the listening ear, The cherished hopes of his future days, With a lover's smile of anxious fear

Oh! happy pair, in their walks of life, How all unknown is the brow of care, The burning heart, and the spuit's strife, Which the seeming happy often wear.

And thus I turn from the world away. To wander over the building ground, Where the mowers toss the yellow hay, And scatter the perfumed heaps around.

SPEAK IT BOLDLY. Be theu like the first apostles-Be thou like heroic Paul; If a free thought seeks expression, Speak it boidly-speak it all! Face thine enemies-accusers, Scorn the prison, rack, or rod! And if thou hast the TRUTH to utter. SPEAK! and leave the rest to God.

For the Quincy Patriot. THE SCHOOLMASTER'S SOLILOQUY. Here ye are, my scholars, all-Older, younger, large and small: Wondering childhood's look askance; Gentle girlhood's gleeful glance; Boastful boyhood's bonny smile, Playful, arch, yet free from guile; These are sights that suit me well,-Scenes on which I love to dwell. Sung at the Rural Celebration of the Sunday School of Rev. Mr. Lunt's Society. Tune-AULD LANG SYNE.

Ye friends of youth, who stand around, To bless this happy hour, Welcome to this delightful grove, To pleasure's lovely bower: And while with joy our voices rise, And echo through this pine, Let mem'ry take a passing glance At days of Auld Lang Syne.

We read that through this forest once The bear and wolf did ream; That here our grandsires pitched their tents, Here made their forest home; That o'er the dark blue wave they came, And left their friends behind, That they might freely worship God In days of Auld Lang Syne.

And now that mem'ry gilds the past, And hours of pleasure roll, Be virtue, truth, and holiness Inscribed upon the soul,-Inscribed in words of living flame, Which glows in every line, Revering those who fought and bled In days of Auld Lang Syne.

And may this hour inspire our hearts To cast all sin away, And every morn to us break forth A happy, joyful day. So when our locks, full white with age, Shall tell of our decline, With pleasure then may we look back To days of Auld Lang Syne.

Tune-HEBRON.

God, thou art good! each perfumed flower, The smiling fields, the dark green wood, The insect fluttering for an hour,-All things proclaim that God is good.

I hear it in the rushing wind; The hills that have for ages stood! And clouds with golden colors lined, Are all repeating God is good.

Each little rill, that many a year Has the same verdant path pursued, And every bird, in accents clear, Joins in the song that God is good.

And countless are the blazing stars, That sing his praise with light renewed; The rising sun each day declares, In rays of glory, God is good.

The moon that walks in brightness, says, That God is good! and we, endued With power to speak our Maker's praise, Will still repeat that God is good.

Tune-GREENVILLE.

Here we meet with joy together, 'Neath the shade of leafy trees, While the branches make sweet music, Rustling in the summer breeze.

Filled with love each heart rejoices, Breathing forth the secret prayer; While young children's sweet-toned voices Float upon the balmy air.

Hour of gladness, scene of beauty! Radiant all around, above : Speaking to the soul of duty, Hope, and faith, and heavenly love.

Every bosom beats with gladness; Brightly beams each glancing eye; Banish gloomy care and sadness, As the hours roll gaily by.

Now the lengthened shadows stealing, Whisper softly, hence away! To thy homes with holy feeling Hasten, with the sun's last ray.

Day of happiness and pleasure, Ne'er wilt thou forgotten be! But, mid memory's choicest treasure, We will guard and cherish thee.

Would you find a REMEDY FOR THE EVIL ? Here it is The experience of more than twenty years has proved its efficacy, and thousands are tooicing in its effects.

Case of INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION -- George W. Burnett, Esq. of Newark, N. J., had suffered under the effects of a severe cold for more than a year, and in the month of August, when his Cough had reduced him so much that he feated he would die, he commenced using the Olosaonian. He raised blood at this time, complained of pain in his side and chest, and was very much debilitated by night sweats. His appetite was gone, and altogether he appeared to be rapidly sinking. He was so much relieved by the use of this remedy that by the month of November he left for Pittsburg, Pa. with every prospect of being permanently cured.

Hundreds of cases could be given to prove the efficacy of the great remedy. And it possesses a property superior to all others, viz: it does not constipate the bowels. Reader, are you suffering under any of the above symptoms of disease? Try this remedy -It will allay the Poin in your side and chest-put to flight the COUGH which deprives you of sweet slumber and repose ; if you have Asthma, be assured there is no medicine in the world that will cure you so speedily, and it will arrest all those disagre-able symptoms which strike such terror to the mind and give such dreadful forebodings of an untimely and speedy dissolution.

"OTHER PEOPLE."

I remember once to have heard the following In a certain northern town lived a wealthy man who had an only son. The son was universally set down by the townfolks as an idiot; the father called him weak. One morning as his father sat in his study busily employed, Jamie rushed in, and stood with his face glowing, his hands working, his feet uneasily moving backwards and forwards, and every jesture evincing that he had something important to communicate, and was too nervous to express it.

Well, Jamie,' said his father encouragingly, 'What is it?' 'I want something, father,' answered Jamie.

Well, Jamie, what is it we 'I want a dog, father,' answered Jamie. 'A dog!' exclaimed the astonished parent; 'what can you want with a dog?'

'I just want it,' said Jamie, twirling his thumbs and looking down. But what for?' again asked his father. 'Well, I don't exactly know,' replied Jamie, still twirling his thumbs; 'but I want it.' 'Tell me what you want with a dog, and you shall have one,' said the father; 'but I certainly should not like to trust you, unless you show that you have some object in view.'

Every body in our town keeps a dog, but me!' cried Jamie, indignantly, and beginning to whimper. 'There's Sandy Donaldson, and Willie Allison, and Bob Gordon, and Wattie Campbell, all keep dogs! Other people keep dogs; and why mayn't I keep a dog too?"

It was impossible to resist laughing at, or granting a request backed by so exquisite a reason. The father had his joke, and Jamie H had his dog; but within a week Jamie was laid up with a lacerated leg, and began to doubt whether the pleasure of keeping a dog compensated for the pain inflicted by the said dog's occasionally taking it into his head to bite his master.

Now, dear reader, perhaps you may laugh at this story of an idiot in a northern town; and ... having done so, let us try to extract something useful from it; and ask ourselves whether there be not many idiots in other towns, northern, southern, eastern, and western, who would despise the simplicity of Jamie, and yet who do the very same thing themselves; who pay as much deference to foolish doings of 'other an people, who, like him, keep a dog merely because their friends and neighbors keep dogs; and who, like him, get well bitten for their pains. Yes, the mass of mankind is made up V of 'Jamies,' and Jamie's town may represent the world.

Old Potts gives once every year a grand ar party of seventy people, with chandeliers, a quadrille band, ice, and champaigne. Why he did so I could never conceive: he is a merry widower, free from family cares, and above all things, partial to a quiet rubber. On a late festive occasion, as I stood fixed tightly in a doorway, the master of the revels came towards me through the throng, looking exceedingly uncomfortable, and wiping his forehead with a huge white mouchoir. 'Ah!' exclaimed he, noticing me in the throng, 'hot work, isn't it! I'm as tired as if I had been walking twenty miles." 'It is very kind of you, taking so much peo trouble on account of your friends,' said I, feel- kind ing that I ought to say something, and not town knowing exactly what to say. 'Ah!' said Potts, bending towards me in a confidential manner; 'I hate these crowds, my W dear young friend-I hate them! Nothing like men s a snug party of six or eight.'

'Then why ask sixty or eighty?' said I, re- human ciprocating the tone of confidence. 'Ah, my dear young friend,' said Potts, that W shaking his head, 'you don't understand these Washi things. By and by, when you keep house, abuse.

We will commence with a quotation from this section : "Now, Mr. Individual, what right have you to say that we meant a lady, as the meeting, and then to say that we have accused her of slandering Mr. Long?"

Well, gentlemen, you have asked two important questions, and I will endeavor to an> will see that it takes the whole of them to give fully his definition But he divides the general definition into two parts only, 1st. "One who produces, creates, or brings into being."

These words taken together always denote "author;" but the term "produces," does not always denote author; for Webster gives to it ten different significations, some of which have no reference to "author;" as his first definition of it, which you quote. Because I hold my pen to your view, am I its author? His fifth definition of produce means "author," viz. "to cause, to effect, to bring into existence;" and this is the sense in which he would have us understand it, as used in his definition of "author." So there was no propriety in your calling "producer" his first definition of author.

3d. Because I really thought, by the term "author" you meant the lady, as I had mentioned her name to several gentlemen, intimately concerned with you in this case, heard their replies, and inferred that you knew who the "author" was. I thought so, till my first article was in type, when it was suggested by a friend, you meant me. Then, I could not believe that the writer of so able a report could make such a mistake in the use of so plain a term. These reasons, gentlemen, were my right for calling the lady the "author."

Your second question is: "What right had you to say, that we accused the lady of slandering Mr. Long?"

This question is easily answered:

I had a right to say so, from your use of the shaking his head, 'you don't understand these Washington had to submit to the harshest be dreaded than that of winter. After the age about Mr. Long; they smelled none, and there- term "author." She was the "author" of the

A child

With full blue eyes and softly clustering hair-An orphan, by the flinty-hearted world Forgot-one evening, in the dewy light And calm sereness of the blessed stars, Knelt to her Maker. She had learned to pray-Catching deep holy whispers from the lips Of her sweet mother :- and while now she prayed Large tears of grief and butter loneliness Welled from the hidden fountain of her heart :-She prayed :- and like some winged dream her prayer Flew upward to the throne of God; and He Received it to his bosom. And there came, Mingled with starlight, a soft, inaudible Response that filled her soul with balmiest hope; And weeping with the excess of a new joy She sobbed herself to sleep.

The morrow came With gilded morn and song of early birds And bubbling of the joyous rivulets, And with it also came an angel form That wakened this same child with tenderest kisses, Took her from want and tearful loneliness And was a mother to her. Then she prayed With the full heart of gratitude so long As on the earth she walked, and ever said And taught her children thus to say Our Heavenly Father, blessed be thy name !

R. H. BACON. For the Quincy Patriot.

LINES On the death of Robert Dorman who died on the 10th of July, 1846, aged 22 years. He was estremed and loved by all who knew him and his death was lamented by all.

The sun so calm, so mild and radient, threw Its rays so gorgeous with its brightest hues, Just risen from its slumbers o'er the lofty trees That give the notes unto the ruffling breeze, To shed its last ray upon the invalid, Who in the grave alone must soon be laid ; Its ray for the last time his pale wan face to light Which not long before was in healthy bloom and bright.

It through the window poured its soothing ray; It seemed to call to mind a future day : It seemed to calm his poor and aching breast, And light his spirit to its final rest. He grasped the Bible in his feeble hand, Which trembled wildly as that book he spann'd, To spread its leaves before his dazzled eye, To gaze upon it once before he'd die ; His trembling finger wildly o'er it passed, For then it seemed old Death to him had clasped. But his fingers then no one place seemed to heed, He lisped his friend its contents to him read. Just then his eye was set, so glassy wide. From him grim death no longer seemed to hide; He ruthless came, and gave the mortal stroke. And then poor Robert's last life spell was broke. Kindest of the kind, beloved by all, And many will mourn the sadness of his fall. Alas ! and like the old and aged tree, Which sinks when fallen, into obscurity. From all its earthly race, whence once it stood The monarch of the datk and aged wood Thus with our friend we loved, fallen and gone, Those eyes of angels a true paragon, And to the dead his corse has added one. And the name of Robert will sink in oblivion !

> SILENT LOVE. What is Love's sweetest, truest bliss? For Beauty's charms to glow and die, Would you seek other joys than this, And for a fairer fortune sigh, You may torment yourself in vain. But what you wish you'll never gain.

He that is loved, and loves again, Can easily his faith display; But he is blest who suffers pain. Who grieves, and yet is ever gay. If you another game would try. You still may love, but hope will fiv.

He who would Love's high meed obtain. And thus his long sought bliss insure, One single heart should strive to gain, With patience hope, with joy endure. His constancy he thus will prove, And merit well the prize of Love.

THE COUNTRY TO THE CITY-GREETING. For you I stripp'd my trees and bowers, To you I sent my fruit and flowers-And, in return, I humbly ask it, Be just, and-just return the basket.

ANECDOTES

"Will you take this woman to be your wedded wife?" said an Illinois magistrate who was placing the indissoluble knot of matrimony on a couple, mutually attached to one another. "Wall, I swar, squire," said the groom, a wolfish looking customer, "you must be a darned green un, to ax such a question as that ar. Do you think I'd be such a plaguy fool, old fellow, as to go to the bar hunt, and take this gal from the quiltin fiolic, if I wasn't conscriptuously certain and determined to have her? Drive on with your bizziness, and ax no more foolish questions."

THE subscriber having taken the Store formerly SARSAPARILLA AND WILD CHERRY BITTERS.

For the Permanent Removal of all such diseases as take their rise in an Impure Blood, Impaired Digestion, morbid state of the Liver and Stomach. Weakness of the Nerrous System, and a disordered habit of Constitution generally.

DR. WOOD'S Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bit ters have already, by their substantial excellence won a degree of public favor and pationage, which puts them beyond the need of recommendation. Being faithfully prepared of the most excellent materials, they can be fully confide d in by all in need of a tonic, aperient or alterative remedy. Sarsaparilla takes a high rank among Physicians and all others in the list of curative agents, and it is this fact which THE subscribers having this day formed a Copart-nership under the firm of has rendered it so deservedly popular over all other medicines of the day. In Dr. Wood's standard preparation, it is warranted to be found in great purity and would respectfully inform the citizens of Quincy, that Wild Cherry, a tonic of the first order. LUDICROUS POLITENESS.

Insincerity and extravagant adulation often up betray people into uttering the most ridiculous absurdities, quite unintentionally. A great man w addressing the House of Lords, said, "It is my ca most painful duty to inform your lordships that it has pleased the Almighty to release the a King from his sufferings." This was equivalent to saying that he was sorry the King's sufferings were over.

ing to him in a dream. "Pardon me!" replied | the other, "I really did not hear you." A lady of rank having had the professional an services of a village piper at a little fete which v she had given on her estate, received the following ridiculously civil note from him: "Your ladyship's pardon for my boldness in thus applying for payment, would be almost sufficient compensation for the labor of your humble piper, Patrick Walch." Lord Clarendon, in his essays on the decay of respect to old age, says that in his younger days, he never kept his hat on before those of older than himself, except at dinner. In the r present day, the wearing of a hat at dinner would be thought more disrespectful than at any other time. George IV., when Prince of Wales, used to the return the bows of all persons in the streets except beggars. He justified this omission by ca remarking, that to return a beggar's bow without giving him any thing, would be meckery, and to stop for the purpose of bestowing a sixpence would seem ostentatious in a prince. Sir Robert Graham being apprised that he had, by mistake, pronounced sentence of transportation on a criminal who had been found guilty of a capital offence, desired the man to be again placed in the dock, and hastily putting on the black cap, he said, "Prisoner at the bar, I beg your pardon;" and then passed on him the awful sentence of death.

A country carpenter having neglected to make a gallows that had been ordered by a certain day, the judge himself went to the man, and said, "fellow, how came you to neglect making the gibbet that I ordered?" Without intending a sarcusm, the man replied, "I'm very sorry; for had I known it was for your lordship, it should have been done immediately. While an officer was bowing, a cannon ball passed over his head and decapitated a soldier who stood behind him. "You see," said the officer to those near him, "that a man never loses by politeness." Napoleon's hat having fallen off, a young lieutenant stepped forward, picked it up, and presented it to him .- "Thank you captain," said the emperor, inadvertently. "In what regiment, sire?" inquired the sub, quick as lightning. Napoleon smiled, and forth with promoted the witty youth to a captaincy. Notwithstanding the fury with which the battle of Fontenoy was contested, it began with a great show of civility. Lord Charles Hay, a captain of the English guards, advanced before the ranks, and Count d'Anteroche, a lieutenant of grenadiers in the French guards, stepped forward to meet him .- "Fire, gentlemen of the French guards!" exclaimed the English Captain. "No, my lord;" replied the French lieutenant; "we never fire first." This reminds us of an anecdote told of Curran, who, being called out to give satisfaction to an officer for some Old Colony Bailroad. SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

MR. EDITOR: The following lines were suggested by an incident which they do not fully explain. A lady, a friend of the writer, during a recent visit at Newport, R. I, saw a rainbow, apparently resting on and embracing the Cross, which surmounts the spire of the Roman Catholic Church at that place. She gave me the facts, and requested me to do what I could with them. Here is the result:

I saw a rainbow span the eastern sky: It seemed to hold, within its pure embrace, A cross, which human hands had placed on high,-The symbol of our faith-the time, the place, The circumstance, combining, filled my mind With a sweet sense of pleasure undefined.

Hid 'mid primeval ages, when the word Of God was given, that henceforth no power bird Commissioned from the ark to seek the shore, Had filled its mission, to return no more.

Then, with a quick transition, as I viewed The cross, all brilliant with the solar ray, The Savior's dying form before me stood, And, to my listening ear he seemed to say, As then he said, -his enemies in view, -" Father, forgive, they know not what they do."

And when the incident had passed away, My heart retained the lesson which it taught The 'rainbow and the cross' have many a day The pleasure of a sweet reflection brought-God's promise kept, though ages rolled away,--Christ's dying prayer, to teach us how to pray. HAL.

For the Quincy Patriot.

I WAS SICK AND YE VISITED ME. Sickness had come around my hearth, Disease had entered there, My soul disheartened sought relief-To unburthen all my care.

My anxious and foreboding fears Disturbed my troubled mind,-Brought low my former active powers,-I sighed, " have I friend?"

Some good sumaritans appeared To soothe my troubled breast ; From words of anguish they replied, " Ah, this is not your rest."

" That frail and fragile form you loved Was lent you by the Lord; Oh! fix your trembling hopes above, He will you strength afford."

Sickness bad passed away, but lo! Death in its room appeared, And " thus my expectations go," My quivering lips replied. .

" And thus I'm called, alas, how oft, To drink the cup of woe; Behold my friends how I'm bereft, Will you not pity show?" A good Samaritan stood by; He spake the words of love ; He sought my anguish to allay By guiding me above.

He pointed to the word of God That was forever sure ; From age to ages it has stood, And ever would endure.

" The precepts of that sacred word, Oh, fix upon your mind, And, through the blessing of the Lord You will there comfort find."

" Its import is, rest not your heart On things below the sun : They soon will vanish from our sight And ne'er again return.

" May every idol from my heart' You've prayed, 'be overthrown'; This might have shared an idol's part That now from you is gone."

Again my home was desolate; Sorrow again appeared; A kind and sympathizing heart With me my sorrow shared.

Then in the fullness of my soul I did these words address; " He that the wounded seeks to heal,

Will not the Savier bless?" When ye're permitted to arise,

And your redeemer see, He will these words to you disclose, "I was sick, -ye visited me."

Another hand is beckoning us, Another call is given; And glows once more with angels' steps The path which reaches Heaven.

Our young and gentle friend, whose smile Made brighter summer hours, A midst the frosts of autumn time, Has be left us with the flowers.

No paling of the cheek of bloom Forewarned us of decay ; No shadow from the Silent Land Fell round our sister's way.

The light of her young life went down, As sinks behind the hill The glory of a setting star, Clear, suddenly, and still.

As pure and sweet her fair brow seemed Eternal as the sky; And like the brook's low song, her voice, A sound which could not die.

And half we deemed she needed not, The changing of her sphere, To give to Heaven a shining one Who walked an angel here.

The blessing of her quiet life Fell on us like the dew ; And good thoughts, where her footsteps fell Like fairy blossoms grew.

Sweet promptings unto kindest deeds, Were in her every look : We read her face as one who reads A true and holy book.

The measure of a blessed hymn, To which our hearts could move ; The breathing of an inward psalm-A canticle of love.

We miss her in the place of prayer, And by the hearth-fire's light; We pause beside her door to hear Once more her sweet "Good-night."

There seems a shadow on the day, Her smile no longer cheers ; A dimness on the stars of night, Like eyes that look through tears.

Alone unto our Father's will One thought hath reconciled : That He, whose love exceedeth ours, Hath taken home his child.

Fold her, oh Father ! in thine arms, And let her henceforth be A messenger of love between Our human hearts and Thee.

Still let her mild rebukings stand Between us and the wrong-And her dear memory serve to make Our faith in goodness strong.

And grant that she, who, trembling here, Distrusted all her powers, May welcome to her holier home, The weil beloved of ours.

WOMAN'S LOVE. When all the world grows strange, Then shall her arms enfold thee ; When smiling fortunes change, Then shall her words uphold thee.

When all thine hopes will fail, And leave thee naught but care; And when thy cheek grows pale, Or wasted with despair :

When desolation meets thee, Without an arm to save; When death himself shall greet thee, A victim for the grave :

Then woman shall caress thee With all an angel s care; Then shall she softly bless thee With more than angel's prayer.

SARSAPARILLA AND WILD CHERRY EVERY BITTERS.

For the Permanent Removal of all such diseases as take their rise in an Impure Blood, Impaired Digestion, morbid state of the Liver and Stomach, Weakness of the Nerrous System, and a disordered habit of Constitution generally.

DR. WOOD'S Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bit-ters have already, by their substantial excellence, won a degree of public favor and patronage, which puts them beyond the need of recommendation. Being faithfully prepared of the most excellent mate- Cheap, of rials, they can be fully confide d in by all in need of a tonic, aperient or alterative remedy. Sarsaparilla takes a high rank among Physicians and all others in the list of curative agents, and it is this fact which has rendered it so deservedly popular over all other medicines of the day. In Dr. Wood's standard preparation, it is warranted to be found in great purity and strength, and gaining much by its union with the Wild Cherry, a tonic of the first order. This happy combination is the only one ever made of these acti- Mourning cles, and founded as it is on the best medical principles, and their virtues extracted by a rigid chemical analysis, experience has shown its unusual power and N. WILLIAM WHITING, Secretary. Roxbury, Aug. 1.

And the scholar had his gown, And the old knight stout, he walked about, With his broad sword hanging down.

Ye may see this world was a brave old world In the days long past and gone, And the sun it shone, and the rain it raised, And the world went merrily on, The shepherd kept his sheep, And the milkmaid milked the kine, And the serving man was a sturdy loon,

And I've been told in this brave old world, There were jolly times and free, And they danced and sung, till the welkin rung, All under the greenwood tree,

In cap and doublet fine.

The sexton chimed his sweet, sweet bells, And the huntsman blew his horn, And the hunt went out, with a merry shout, Beneath the jovial morn.

Oh, the golden days of the brave old world Made hall and cottage shine : The squire he sat in his oaken chair. Or reclined 'neath his fruitful vine; The lovely village maiden, She was the village queen, And, by the mass, tript through the grass To the May-pole on the green.

When the trumpets roused this brave old world, And banners flaunted wide, The knight bestrode the stalwart steed, And the page rode by his side. And plumes and pennone tossing bright Dash'd through the wild melee,

And he who pressed amid them best, Was lord of all, that day. And ladies fair, in the brave old world, They ruled with wondrous sway;

But the stoutest knight was lord of right, As the strongest is to-day. The baron bold he kept his hold, Her bower his bright ladye, But the forester kept the good greenwood, All under the forest tree.

Oh, how they laughed in the brave old world, And fiung grim care away ! And then they were tired of working They held it time to play. The bookman was a reverend wight, With a studious face so pale, And the curfew bell, with its sullen swell, Broke duly on the gale.

And so passed on, in the brave old world. Those merry days and free ; The king and the clown enjoyed themselves, Each man in his degree. And some ruled well and some ruled ill, And thus passed on the time, With jolly ways in those brave old days When the world was in its prime.

WILT THOU REMEMBER ME? When we have met no more to meet, And years have parted me and thee, Wilt thou remember once how fleet We thought the hours-and yet how sweet-Will thou remember me?

When lone, at eve, within thy bower, Thousitt'st in silent reverse, Say-in the dream of that still hour, When fancy yields to Memory's power, Wilt thou remember me?

When friends are met, and mirth is loud. And every tongue is praising thee, One moment wilt thou quit the crowd, One moment turn thy looks to shroud, Wilt thou remember me?

And when thy silence music's chord, For whispered word and merry glee, Will merry glee and whispered word, One moment be unfelt, unheard, Wilt thou remember me?

And when to reach thy lip and brow, Some happier lover hangs o'er thee--While he is pouring vow on vow, While he is praising, say wilt thou Remember only me?

ANECDOTES

Why do you not admire my daughter?" said a UST received, and for sale low, a fresh lot of CURLED PALM-LEAF MATRESSES, of exlady to a young man. " Because," said he, "I am no judge of PAINTING." "But surely," said the lady, tra size and of superior quality, by not the least disconcerted by the reflection, "you Quincy, March 29. never saw an angel that was not painted."

" Let me see, sir; what have you had, sir?" " Three fish.

" Only brought you two, I think, sir." " No, three. I had two mackerel, and one smelt."

"I say, Mr. Horn, don't those boys get sleepy being out so late at night?" "I s'pose they do sometimes, sir, but I hire them expressly to set up," replied that individual. That 's a 'ten strike,' " said 'Lem,' winking with both eyes.

" How did you feel while in camp?" asked some "Feel," said he, "why, I often felt so infernal mean that I wished some fellow had been kicking me through the street."

A loafer tumbled into a dry dock the other day, and Loss or Damage by Fire on Buildings, Stocks, Furni got a terrible sousing. He said he could not see what made people lie so. 'Dry dock be -! I'm wetter GEORGE NEWCOMB, Agent. than a week's east wind squeezed out, cuss it !"

Is he my neighbor that to day Talks loud of friendship's noble sway,-There's nought to him like peace? Behold him here, behold him there, Foul slander to his heart is dear, That parrow mind but trace.

Is he my neighbor that can go Disguised my friend but still my foe, Ever on the alert For favored moments to appear That they with enemies may share Room for deceptive arts?

Is he my neighbor that can come Within my own, but quiet, home With menaces of wrath, My weeping children hovering round, Threat me with perjury if found Thus to persist in truth?

He is my neighbor, he my friend, Of noble intellect refined. Who firm, undaunted seeks. When enemies around me hover, Deep hidden truths for to discover, Solely for justice's sake.

He is my neighbor that will trace Foul slander to its hiding place, Explore its surface wide ; Bearch for deep and abiding truths, Array disinterested proofs; Neighbors these are indeed.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES. I wish the fashions were the same, As thirty years ago, I can't imagine what can make The tailor's change them so ; When I was in my youth I made A cost of homespun do, And thought it very fine to have My hair tied in a queue.

And in those days the breeches were All buckled at the knee, And silver buckles would ensure The best of company ; Our beavers were of comely shape-And kept off sun and rain .-O how I wish those broad brimmed hats Would come in vogue again.

I'm troubled with a balf a yard Of cloth about my feet; My coat is made so very small, The laps will hardly meet; Tight knees are all the fashion now, And shoes must have square toes ; The tailer only knows.

The dandies of the present day Have watch chains all of gold, You'd think their monstrous pocket book Was filled with wealth untold. My father wore a silver watch

And eke a good steel chain, And well I recollect his straight Old pewter headed cane. He owned a large and thrifty farm,

Of wood and meadow land, And always had a plenty of The dollar coins on hand ; I guess some dashy friends of mine Would find it rather hard. To pay for coats they're wearing now-At " two pounds ten per yard."

But as for me I wish I had My silver dollars back. I'd recollect my father's ways, And tread the same old track : I'd never do as I have done. Risk hundreds at a bet, Not be obliged so oft to cry-· Clean pockets here to Lat.

From the Cincinnati Daily Times of May 20th. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. We would advise our readers who are laboring on of this truly excellent medicine. The most intelligent of Quincy, in said County, Stonecutter, formerly coand respectable families of our city have adopted it as a tavortie family medicine; and persons predisposed est terms of its efficacy.

Scores of individuals have been cured of Asthma. the early stages of Consumption, Bleeding of the Lungs, obstinate coughs, etc. by this Balsam, after law in all candor. It is indeed a melancholy truth that hereby notified to appear at a meeting of creditors to plaints with the greatest indifference, and let them run on for weeks, and even menths, without think- the choice of assignee or assignees.

O, a farmer's life, a farmer's life, From every trouble free, With enjoyment rife, and free from strile-O, a farmer's life for me !

'Tis a happy life, 'tis a merry life-Independent, too, I trow; For he alone is lord of the soil, The knight of the scythe and hoe. In spring he turneth the genial mould, Himself and his jovial crew; He plants the seed, and in autumn, behold!

What a harvest greets his view.

Dr. Wood's SARSAPARILLA AND WILD CHERRY BITTERS.

For the Permanent Removal of all such diseases as take their rise in an Impure Blood, Impaired Digestion, morbid state of the Liver and Stomach, Weakness of the Nervous System, and a disordered habit of Constitution generally.

DR. WOOD'S Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bit ters have already, by their substantial excellence, won a degree of public favor and pationage, which puts them beyond the need of recommendation. Being faithfully prepared of the most excellent matefials, they can be fully confide d in by all in need of a tonic, aperient or alterative remedy. Sarsaparilla takes a high rank among Physicians and all others in the list of curative agents, and it is this fact which has rendered it so deservedly popular over all other medicines of the day. In Dr. Wood's standard preparation, it is warranted to be found in great purity and strength, and gaining much by its union with the Wild Cherry, a tonic of the first ordet. This happy combination is the only one ever made of these arti cles, and founded as it is on the best medical principles, and their virtues extracted by a rigid chemical analysis, experience has shown its unusual power and

This preparation will be found on trial, to be a sure and speedy remedy for the diseases enumerated above. They purify the blood, secure regular digestion, pro mote a healthy action of the Liver end Stomach, and strengthen the nerves, at once securing HEALTH and VIGOR to the whole system, In all cases of DESPON-DENCY, arising from Indigestion or Nervous irritation, they have been used with remarkable success; not are they less useful as a remedy for Headache, Flatulency Loss of Appetite, and a general prostration of the system. At the same time, it must be stated, that they are neither violent nor at all dangerous in their operation, securing as they do the desired end by a steady, regular and easy influence. Taken daily, in doses prescribed, they will be found to operate in that ger tle and salutary manner, which is, in fact, their high-

The following certificates, among many others which have been received from the most respectable sources, furnish satisfactory proof of the value and efficacy of this highly popular medicine.

Sandwich, Sept. 4, 1844. MR. E. THORNTON, JR. Dear Sir,-This is to certify, that my daughter has been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years, attended with almost constant headache and other distressing symptoms which accompany this disease. She visited Boston to avail herself of the advice of the justly celebrated physicians of that city, all to no purpose. By the solicitation of a friend, I was induced to purchase a bottle of Dr. Wood's Sarsapartila and Wild Cherry Bitters. Before taking one bottle she was relieved entirely of the headache, and after taking two or three bottles, the other symptoms en-N. B. GIBBS. tirely disappeared.

North Fairhaven, Long Plain, June, 16, 1845. Dear Sir,-My daughter has been for more than two years afflicted with a confirmed Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, together with a severe and constant tended by the most skilful and intelligent physicians, more has been said in its favor than its virtues safely but with little or no relief, until we found the disease was rapidly taking the form of confirmed consumption. At this time, I determined to have recourse to Dr Wood's Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitters, as prepared by you, and it gives me the sincerest pleasure to state, that after the use of a few bottles, my daughter was happily restored to perfect health. I have the highest confidence in this medicine, and shall cheerfully recommend it to my friends Very truly yours, ANSEL WHITE. The cure described in the above certificate of Mr White, is by no means a singular one There are hundreds who have been cured from the most acute or long continued disease, by the use of this excellent and highly popular remedy. From the hill-top looks the steeple, And the light house from the sand, And the scattered pines are waving Their farewell from the land, One glance, my lads behind us, For the homes we leave one sigh, Ere we take the change and chances Of the ocean and the sky.

The breath of Heaven will speed.

Now, brothers, for the icebergs Of frozen Labrador, Floating spectral in the moonshine, Along the low black shore ! Where like snow the gannet's feather On Brador's rocks are shed, And the noisy murs are flying Like black scuds overhead.

Where in the mist the rock is hiding And the sharp reef lurks below ; And the white squall smites in summer And the autumn tempests blow; Where through grey and rolling vapor From evening unto morn, A thousand boats are hailing, Horn answering unto horn.

Hurrah! for the Red Island, With the white cross on its crown ! Hurrah! for Meccatina And its mountains bare and brown, Where the Caribou's tall antlers O'er the dwarf wood freely toss, And the footstep of the Micanac Has no sound upon the moss !

There we'll drop our lines, and gather Old ocean's treasures in, Where'er the mottled mackerel Turns up a steel-dark fin ; Where'er the brown cod glideth Amid his scaly clan, We will reap the North-land's barvest, And claim the crop for man.

Dr. Wood's SARSAPARILLA AND WILD CHERRY BITTERS.

For the Permanent Removal of all such diseases as take their rise in an Impuse Blood, Impaired Digestion, morbid state of the Liver and Stomach, Weakness of the Aeroous System, and a disordered habit of Constitution generally.

DR. WOOD'S Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitwon a degree of public favor and pationage, which puts them beyond the need of recommendation. Being faithfully prepared of the most excellent materials, they can be fully confide d in by all in need of a tonic, aperient or alterative remedy. Sarsaparilla takes a high rank among Physicians and all others in the list of curative agents, and it is this fact which has rendered it so deservedly popular over all other medicines of the day. In Dr. Wood's standard preparation, it is warranted to be found in great purity and strength, and gaining much by its union with the Wild Cherry, a tonic of the first order. This happy combination is the only one ever made of these ar cles, and founded as it is on the best medical principles, and their virtues extracted by a rigid chemical analysis, experience has shown its unusual power and

This preparation will be found on trial, to be a sure and speedy remedy for the diseases enumerated above. They purify the blood, secure regular digestion, pro mote a healthy action of the Liver end Stomach, and strengthen the nerves, at once securing HEALTH and VIGOR to the whole system, in all cases of DESPON-DENCY, arising from Indigestion or Nervous irritation, they have been used with remarkable success; nor are they less useful as a remedy for Headache, Flatulency Loss of Appetite, and a general prostrution of the system. At the same time, it must be stated, that they are neither violent nor at all dangerous in their operation, securing as they do the desired end by a steady, regular and easy influence. Taken daily, in doses prescribed, they will be found to operate in that gentle and salutary manner, which is, in fact, their highest recommendation.

The following certificates, among many others which have been received from the most respectable sources, furnish satisfactory proof of the value and efficacy of this highly popular medicine Sandwich, Sept. 4, 1841.

I for the suppression of Quackery, and for the sale genuine Medicines, offer their assistance and counsel to the sick and afflicted, knowing from experience and unequivocal knowledge that hundreds annually find a premature grave from the malpractices of unlettered and unlicensed practitioners. The records of our Hospitals are a sad proof of the above. Dishonesty and the speculation of Quacks, which continually make the most sacred science subservient to their purposes, have availed themselves of every expedient, like every other road to deception; but if there be men who are deprayed and reckless, there are some too whose actions are guided by the interest of their patients alone, and whom no imputation can effect .--The limits of an advertisement can hardly do justice to our subject, for it is an important one. When Celwe should, in our turn, be accused of immorality in thus placing before the public this appeal in hehalf of the invalid. Weakness of the Nervous System, and a disordered habit of Constitution generally. DR. WOOD'S Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitters have already, by their substantial excellence, won a degree of public favor and patronage, which puts them beyond the need of recommendation. Being faithfully prepared of the most excellent materials, they can be fully confided in by all in need of a tonic, aperient or alterative remedy. Sarsaparilla LOV takes a high rank among Physicians and all others in the list of curative agents, and it is this fact which a has rendered it so deservedly popular over all other medicines of the day. In Dr. Wood's standard preparation, it is warranted to be found in great purity and strength, and gaining much by its union with the Wild Cherry, a tonic of the first order. This happy combination is the only one ever made of these articles, and founded as it is on the best medical principles, and their virtues extracted by a rigid chemica analysis, experience has shown its unusual power and This preparation will be found on trial, to be a sure and speedy remedy for the diseases enumerated above. They purify the blood, secure regular digestion, promote a healthy action of the Liver end Stomach, and strengthen the nerves, at once securing HEALTH and

MR. E. THORNTON, JR. Dear Sir .- This is to certify, that my daughter has been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years, attended with almost constant headache and other distressing symptoms which accompany this disease. She visited Boston to avail herself of the advice of the justly celebrated physicians of that city, all to no purpose. By the solicitation of a friend, I was induced to purchase a bottle of Dr. Wood's Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitters. Before taking one bottle she was relieved entirely of the headache, and after taking two or three bottles, the other symptoms en-

MR. E. THORNTON, JR. Dear Sir,-My daughter has been for more than will be two years afflicted with a confirmed Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, together with a severe and constant headache. During this time, she was constantly attended by the most skilful and intelligent physicians, but with little or no relief, until we found the disease body e was rapidly taking the form of confirmed consumption. At this time, I determined to have recourse to Dr. Wood's Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitters, as prepared by you, and it gives me the sincerest pleasure to state, that after the use of a few bottles, my daughter was happily restored to perfect health. I have the highest confidence in this medicine, and able for shall cheerfully recommend it to my friends.

Very truly yours, ANSEL WHITE.

The cure described in the above certificate of Mr. White, is by no means a singular one. There are hundreds who have been cured from the most acute or long continued disease, by the use of this excellent and highly popular remedy. The proprietor recommends it to the public with the utmost confidence. for in all cases where it has had a fair trial, it has succeeded beyond the expectations of the patient or even his own. #### Arrival of Fall and Winter Goods.

JOHN DINEGAN.

MERCHANT TAHLOR, School Street, Quincy, TAS the pleasure to announce the arrival of an IMMENSE and VARIED ASSORTMENT of very heavy BROADCLOTHS, of English, French and German Manufacture, that will be suitable for which he will sell either by the piece or yard, or MAKE INTO GARMENTS at prices Considerably Less than he has ever offered to his customers before. Those in want of CLOTHING, at FAIR PRICES, would do well to give him an early call, as the VARIOUS but SUPERIOR character of his present assortment of Broadcloths, Cassimeres and Doe Skins, offers peculiar advantages for judicious selection. He would therefore call the attention of the public to the following list of prices :

OVERCOATS, FROCKS OR SACKS,

For an Overcoat made of extra heavy English, French or German Beaver, well lined and wadded throughout, Do. double weaved and faced with Silk Velvet, Do. made of any color or style that may be desired, 18,00 to 24,00 Frock Coats or loose Sacks will vary from, 4.00 to 10.00 In fact, he can get up as good a suit of Clothes for eighteen dollars as his neighbors in the city charge from

VESTINGS.

His Assortment of Vestings must be seen to be appreciated. It consists of VELVETS. Plain and Figured: SATINS; CASHMERES of every style and pattern, and an endless variety of VALENCIAS.

He has also received a good assortment of SATINETTS that will be sold, or made to order, on the most reasonable terms. He has a first rate article, Double Milled, at 37 1-2 cents the yard, that will do for Men's or Boys' COATS or PANTS.

To the Public. Sanctioned by public approbation after a trial of years, and encouraged during that time with steady, progressive and increasing trade, satisfactorily testifies that I have merited support. The increase of business and the position I occupy is not the result of sudden caprice but of steady advancement. My Goods are all marked at the VERY LOWEST notch, and there shall be no deviation from them, as I have but ONE PRICE. I shall continue to have my Garments made by the best of Journeymen Tailors, therefore I shall be able to let my customers have their Garments made in a style that will bear a comparison with those made in the most celebrated establishments in the city, and nearly one half cheaper, as all my garments are cut by myself; they are therefore Warranted to fit and give perfect satisfaction.

SARSAPARILLA AND WILD CHERRY BITTERS. For the Permanent Removal of all such diseases as take their rise in an Impure Blood, Impaired Digestion, morbid state of the Liver and Stomach,

Weakness of the Nervous System, and a disordered habit of Constitution generally. DR. WOOD'S Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bit-ters have already, by their substantial excellence, won a degree of public favor and patronage, which puts them beyond the need of recommendation. Being faithfully prepared of the most excellent materials, they can be fully confided in by all in need of a tonic, aperient or alterative remedy. Sarsaparilla LOW PRICES, many articles of which will be sold takes a high rank among Physicians and all others in the list of curative agents, and it is this fact which has rendered it so deservedly popular over all other medicines of the day. In Dr. Wood's standard preparation, it is warranted to be found in great purity and strength, and gaining much by its union with the Wild Cherry, a tonic of the first order. This happy combination is the only one ever made of these arti cles, and founded as it is on the best medical principles, and their virtues extracted by a rigid chemical analysis, experience has shown its unusual power and This preparation will be found on trial, to be a sure

They purify the blood, secure regular digestion, pro Stiengthen the nerves, at once securing HEALTH and VIGOR to the whole system, In all cases of DESPONDENCY, arising from Indigestion or Nervous irritation, they have been used with remarkable success; nor are they less useful as a remedy for Headache, Flatulency kinds and sizes, etc, etc. Loss of Appetite, and a general prostration of the system. At the same time, it must be stated, that they are neither violent nor at all dangerous in their ope ration, securing as they do the desired end by a steady, regular and easy influence. Dear Sir,-This is to certify, that my daughter has been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years, attended with almost constant headache and other to the safety of articles entrusted to their care, the subdistressing symptoms which accompany this disease. She visited Boston to avail herself of the advice of the justly celebrated physicians of that city, all to no purpose. By the solicitation of a friend, I was induced to purchase a bottle of Dr. Wood's Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitters. Before taking one bottle she was relieved entirely of the headache, and after taking two or three bottles, the other symptoms entirely disappeared. N. B. GIBBS, North Fairhaven, Long Plain, June, 16, 1845.

MR. E. THORNTON, JR. Dear Sir,-My daughter has been for more than two years afflicted with a confirmed Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, together with a severe and constant headache. During this time, she was constantly attended by the most skilful and intelligent physicians, but with little or no relief, until we found the disease body else in town, as he has no help nor rent to pay. was rapidly taking the form of confirmed consumption. At this time, I determined to have recourse to Dr. Wood's Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitters, as prepared by you, and it gives me the sincerest pleasure to state, that after the use of a few bottles, my daughter was happily restored to perfect health. I have the highest confidence in this medicine, and shall cheerfully recommend it to my friends.

Very truly yours, ANSEL WHITE.

The cure described in the above certificate of Mr White, is by no means a singular one. There are hundreds who have been cured from the most acute of long continued disease, by the use of this excellent and highly popular remedy. The proprietor recommends it to the public with the utmost confidence, for in all cases where it has had a fair trial, it has succeeded beyond the expectations of the patient or even his own. The care with which it is prepared, and the intrinsic excellence of its materials, should secure, and have secured for it, a character which it well deserves. The prejudice usually existing against advertised medicines, would not be merited if bestow-Dr. Park can rely on having them of a like quality, ed on this. A song unknown to angel ears, A song that told of banished fears, Of pardoned sins, and dried up tears.

Not one of all the heavenly host Could these high notes attain But spirits from a distant coast United in the strain; Till be who first began the song, To sing alone not suffered long, Was mingled with a countless throng.

And still as hours are fleeting by, The angels ever bear

Some newly ransomed soul on high, To join the chorus there ; And so the song will louder grow, Till all redeemed by Christ below To that fair world of rapture go.

O give me, Lord, my golden harp, And tune my broken voice; That I may sing of troubles sharp Exchanged for endless joys; The song that ne'er was heard before, A sinner reached the heavenly shore, But now shall sound forevermore.

HEART WISHES.

I would not wear a golden crown, Nor reign upon a throne, But o'er one true and loving heart I would be queen alone.

I would not have a servile throng Press round to bow the knee, But one light, free and eager step, Haste homeward unto me.

I would not hear the stirring shout Of plaudits far and wide, But list n soft voice gently speak My name at eventide.

I would not have a sumptuous couch, When pain had laid me low, But one dear arm to fold my form, One hand to press my brow.

I would not have proud marble piled Upon my lowly head, But simple stone, and grassy mound, And one to weep me dead.

I would not have the breath of fame Attempt my worth to prove, But I would have one heart keep The memory of my love.

I would, beloved, to thee and me, The priceless pearl be given, That thy true heart may meet mine own, And each love in heaven.

APPEARANCES ARE DECEITFUL

'Thou hast suffered all that woman's heart May bear, but must not tell. '-- Mrs. Hemans. She is not happy, though her life Is wreathed with radient smiles-Though every word she uttereth, To mirthful thoughts beguiles.

She is not happy though her brow Looks out so calmly fair, And every feature symboleth A heart unknown to care.

She is not happy, though the truth She will to none reveal; But oh ! there is no grief like that, Which we from all conceal!

The world sees but the outward scenes, Where each may act their part : But oh! what desolating wrecks, May hide within the heart.

They tell us when we enter life. That vain are hopes of youth : And soon, alas! experience Convinces of the truth.

And many a brilliant eye is lit With fever's fitful glare; And many a glowing form within, A wasting heart doth wear.

ANECDOTES.

Farmer Dickens, alike noted for his shrewdness and pretty girls, was visited by Jo Jenkings, under pretence of trading oxen, while his real object was to secure one of Farmer Dickens' daughters. Finding no way to accomplish his real object without a direct appeal to the old man, he ventured to pop the question, and received in return a most decided negative. Jo nothing daunted, pushed the trade in oxen, and spite of the farmer's shrewdness, succeeded in a bargain by which the old man found himself essentially 'shaved, At the next appearance of Jo at Farmer Dickens' all was changed, and the old man at once declared that he might go ahead, for if he was shrewd enough to cheat him, he could risk him with his gals. Jo went ahead, took possession of the desired object, and thus far has shown that the old man was not in error as to his conclusion.
